Ecological Restoration is a forum for people advancing the science and practice of restoration ecology. It features the technical and biological aspects of restoring landscapes, as well as collaborations between restorationists and the design professions, land-use policy, the role of education, and more. This quarterly publication includes peer-reviewed science articles, perspectives and notes, book reviews, abstracts of restoration ecology progress published elsewhere, and announcements of scientific and professional meetings.

“Ecological Restoration was instrumental in awakening restoration in North America, and prospers as an invaluable publication for those whose approach to restoring ecosystems includes ecology, culture and all that goes into making a project successful.”

DESIGN, PLANNING, AND MANAGEMENT OF THE LAND

The mission of landscape architecture is supported by research and theory in many fields. Landscape Journal offers in-depth exploration of ideas and challenges that are central to contemporary design, planning, and teaching. Besides scholarly features, Landscape Journal includes editorial columns, creative work, and reviews of books, conferences, technology, and exhibitions. In publication since 1982, the journal continues to be a valuable resource for academics and practitioners.

“[Landscape Journal’s] readership extends well beyond landscape architecture to embrace history, geography, the visual arts, and other place-based fields. It is one of the few journals that students, scholars, professionals, and teachers must read in order to remain current.” —George Thompson, Center for American Places

“A much needed forum of the profession. . . . Outstanding quality in organization, content, format, and presentation.” —American Society of Landscape Architects
